KP Park District joins hands with volunteers

Henry Stock, a volunteer representing the tradition of community involvement of the Key Peninsula and Mike Salatino, representing the Key Peninsula Park Board, agree that the fish pond used in the Pioneer Day celebration needs work.

About five years ago, Henry and Eleanor Stock were the chairpeople of Pioneer Days, and they put on a fine event. One of the innovations Henry came up with was a stocked fish pond for all the junior fisherpeople. It has proved to be an extremely popular and enjoyable attraction for kids.

This year, although Henry is not officially involved with Pioneer Day, he is giving of his time and considerable fund raising abilities to help improve the pond. He has already found volunteers willing to dig out a hole so that a concrete pond can be installed. He will be out and about in the community in the coming weeks looking for donations of time, material and money to make the new cement pond and a sturdy fence surrounding it. If you can help, please give Henry a call at 884-3739.

KP NEWS goes back to once a month

Beginning in June, the Key Peninsula NEWS will return to being a monthly publication, so that we will be able to put out one large issue with all of the same news and features you've always looked for in the NEWS.

The calendar and Key Dates features will show the events for the entire month, and since we will be coming out only once per month, the newspaper's deadline and print dates will fall on the same day each month. Print dates will be the first of month; deadlines the fifteenth. The June print date will be June 4 because of the difficulty of getting a larger issue done between May 21 (our last issue on the old bi-monthly schedule) and June 1. Once again, our next issues will be May 21, June 4 and then on the first of each month for the remainder of the year.

In addition, instead of a regular edition of the Key Peninsula NEWS and the special Pioneer Day issue, the August issue of the paper will be devoted to Pioneer Day.

To our contributors; keep that great material coming. Those of you who submit calendars and other material on upcoming events will need to give us more information further in advance. Please give us a call at 884-4699 if you need any more help or information on submitting material.

Marilyn Vogeler awarded

by Hugh McMillan

Marilyn Vogeler of Vaughn received an appreciation award for volunteer activities from County Executive Joe Stortini on behalf of the Pierce County Government on Saturday, April 28, at the Tacoma Dome. The ceremony was jointly conducted by Pierce County and the city of Tacoma in an assembly hall crowded with some 400 volunteers, guests, and well-wishers for the 27 recipients of the awards.

"Marilyn has really excelled in her work for Citizens Against Crime (CAC)," noted Sheriff's Deputy John Hendrickson, "and we felt her efforts should not go unrecognized."

When is Pioneer day again?

If you read the KP NEWS, you may not know when Pioneer Day is. In the last issue, in the president's column it was August 8. Then in the Pioneer day meeting article, it was August 3. The real date is... Saturday, August 4. And yes, the president of the Civic Center Association knows the date, since a great part of the Association's business right now is preparation for the event. The error in both cases was our fault. You can tease us about it at the KP NEWS booth at Pioneer day. By the way, that will be on Saturday, August 4.

If you are interested in renting a booth for Pioneer Day, please see page 13 for your Pioneer Day booth application.

To The Editor

To the editor:

Little Joey Knickerbocker forgot to look before crossing the street. Now she lies in a hospital bed in a coma. It was an unfortunate accident occurring on highway 302, directly in front of the Harvest Time Country Store. Across the highway from the store is 97th avenue, also known as Greentree, there is a housing development and most households have children. These children range in age from infants to teenagers, and like Joey most of them want to walk or ride their bikes to the store for treats or baseball cards or whatever. With this high concentration of young pedestrians, why can't we indicate a warning for drivers to reduce their speed, preferably to 25 mph, and place a flashing yellow light in front of 97th avenue?

As a resident in this area for almost five years, I have seen the traffic increase significantly. Although the speed limit is 40 in front of the store, it increases to 50 about a quarter mile further on down the road. This is just too fast for drivers to stop in time for a child's error in judgement.

Please, for the safety of our children let's band together to warn drivers to slow down through these potentially dangerous areas.

Kirsti Feldmann
Gig Harbor

To the editor:

I am beginning to assume that the Key Peninsula doesn't exist. Certainly not in this decade's census. I live in a small subdivision of nine families, and none of us received the census form. I even went so far as to call the 800 telephone number advertised on TV to request forms for our area. A very cordial worker said there seemed to be some problems in Gig Harbor. She took my name, address, and I gave her the name and address of family that lives next door. She said this would be taken care of. Nothing!

It is really a shame. There was great concern about getting all the street people counted. Would we have been added to the census, had we been wandering around the streets, or was it all talk? I think it would save the government a lot of money and be a much more accurate count, if they had used the postal service to deliver everyone's forms with as much dependability as they do the junk mail.

I really wonder, how many other areas have been totally ignored in this very important count???

Non-counted, and very frustrated
C. Litt
Gig Harbor

To the Editor:

In response to the trivial controversy in naming the new post office. If you take into consideration the geographic, topographical and historical; the name should be logical and germane. That name should be Longbranch Peninsula. Any other name would be irrelevant and absurd. Whatever name you give it; definitely not Gig Harbor.

In the Age of Orwellian New-speak, I will not be surprised. Today, post office bureaucratic progress can be defined as man's ability to complicate simplicity.

Respectfully yours,

Warren J. Medak

Senior help center

Funded by the Pierce County Area Council on Aging, the Respected Elder Assist Program provides all sorts of important free services to Pierce county residents over the age of 60.

Karen Hudson and the VISTA trained volunteers, Jim Updike and Mary Turner, can assist people who are applying for SSI, social security, medicaid or food stamps. They also have information and referrals for just about any question a senior might have on housing, medical, transportation or home repair services. The newest service they are working to provide is a friendly visiting service, which they will be working with local volunteers to create.

To set up an appointment or find out more about the program, call 884-9833.

Petition being circulated

On April 18 a ten year child was hit by a vehicle as she attempted to cross the street at Highway 302 and 94th Avenue. As of press time, she remains in critical condition.

A petition arising from citizen concern will be placed in Key Peninsula area businesses starting Monday May 7. The petition asks the State and Pierce County to immediately study the traffic hazards in and around the intersection of Creviston Drive NW and Highway 302 and "immediately make such traffic safety improvements as may be deemed necessary and proper to protect...lives."

More information on the petition effort may be obtained from Keith Stiles at 884-3379.

President's Report

Now that the days are longer and nicer we have seen a reduction in the number of skaters. If the attendance stays up we will continue through the summer. Our skate personnel now have red T-shirts with KPCCA and staff written on them so you'll be able to recognize them. Ed and Ronnie Miller, the managers, are planning on some interesting events in the coming months so read the newspaper to find out what.

Attendance at Bingo has been about the same for the last couple of months. Some changes will be made in the next few months and we expect the number of players to increase. Our new manager, Irene Sarlie, has been working on this.

The drywall has been put up and taped on the ceiling of the stage.

The association has been working on getting everything together for Pioneer Days on August 4. The job is enormous and takes about 100 volunteers. This is a fun day for everyone. If anyone would like to help, call me I'm sure we can find something you'll like to do: telephoning, typing, coordinating, set up, take down, clean up, moving a booth, helping with lost children or whatever.

Remember we all like to have fun, so if you help for one hour someone else won't have to work for six or eight hours.

Enjoy the good weather and hope to see you at our board meeting on May 10 at 7:30 with any ideas or offers of help.

next issue of the KP NEWS: May 21 - deadline May 14

Higher property taxes coming

Wendell Brown, Pierce County Assessor-Treasurer, announced that two groups of real property value change notices reflecting 1990 assessments for 1991 taxes, will be mailed out May 4 and the first week of June.

Most property owners will see about a 10% increase in their assessments over the year 1989. State law requires county assessors to value all property at 100% of its true and fair value. Sales of properties in most parts of the county have averaged an increase of 1% per month over the past 18 months.

Property owners who believe their assessments are above market value should contact the County Board of Equalization at 591-7415, and file a petition with the Board by July 1.

Caregivers help save a life.

We have been recently reminded that CPR Training saves lives! On April 8 members of a local family, the Ron Ericksons, were able to help save their son Aaron's life. Peggy Erickson, Aaron's mother, had taken CPR training a year earlier in a Caregivers Support Group meeting!

Others can learn this skill also. On May 16, the Caregivers Support Group will again have a program featuring training in Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation. The meeting will be held in the Brones Room of the Key Center Library from 7 to 10 pm. Robert Bosch will be the instructor. The public is welcome to attend and take this training at no cost. More information is available by calling the Respected Elder Assist Program office at the Civic Center at 884-9833.

Vaughn school to move?

by Megan Aprile

After hearing the architect and soils engineer and reviewing the overall situation of the building, the Vaughn Facility committee has decided that renovating the school on site is not a feasible alternative. The costs of replacing the electrical, heating and plumbing systems along with the actual building construction are comparable to constructing a new building. Another disadvantage to renovating the school was the cost and disruption of busing students to another location while the school was being renovated.

The committee will decide at the next meeting whether Vaughn should be relocated on the existing site, or at another location. All committee meetings are public, and any member of the community who would like to participate in the decision is invited. The meeting date is Thursday, May 24 from 7 to 8:30 pm at Vaughn Elementary school.

The committee is made up of interested community members and Peninsula school district administrators. District administrators asked for input from the school and greater community in the decision making process to make sure the end result will be a decision in which everyone involved has participated.

Summer school: plan now

by Keith Stiles,
 Peninsula School Board

With the end of the formal school year now clearly in sight many parents have already made plans for their children's activities during the summer months. The Peninsula School District's Summer School Program runs from the week of June 25 until July 20. This will be the ninth year for this popular local offering and there will be a wide variety of courses and activities available to children from Kindergarten through the twelfth grade.

There have been many changes in recent years in what we have come to regard as "Summer School." Originally given over to "makeup" work for those who had failed classes or had missed school for a variety of reasons, summer school programs now cover a much wider scope of activity. While some classes may supplement or reinforce regular school work, many classes offer students entirely new opportunities to explore subject ideas, or their own special abilities. Summer school also allows the learning process to continue for several additional weeks, avoiding any "summer slump" to be overcome during the fall. For parents in a family where all of the adults must continue to work summer school also provides a structure upon which to base other activities.

Success in summer school frequently involves a certain degree of planning, especially in coordinating school dates with summer vacation activities. Transportation planning is essential, however, as parents must be responsible for getting the children back and forth from school. There will be no bus service.

Full information on classes available, location, times, age groups, and so forth will become available in about 10 days in a bulletin to be mailed out by the school district; it will also be available from the various school offices. The cost is $36 per class for each child, payable by the registration deadline of Thursday, June 14. A limited number of scholarships are available for those who need them. Information may be obtained by calling Carol Frerichs at 884-9233 during regular school hours. Recommendations for scholarships need to be made by the student's current teacher or school counselor.

The opportunities for continued learning, the making of new friends, and the educational enrichment that is available are all important to children growing up in this challenging and rapidly-changing world!

Student artwork to be featured on local signs

A bright new sign will be popping up around the Key Peninsula area in the next few weeks reminding citizens to protect water quality.

Signs will be posted on the school grounds, around the Penrose Point area and at businesses and public buildings on the Key Peninsula.

The winning design by ten year-old Holly Kintner was unveiled in a ceremony at Evergreen Elementary on April 23. More than 70 students submitted drawings for the event. Holly, an Evergreen fifth grader, in an exclusive interview with the NEWS, said that she "messed up once" and then came up with her winning design. Holly's teacher, Mr. Owens, had told the class about the contest. Although she doesn't usually enter contests, Holly decided to enter this one because she is interested in nature, and doesn't like people to pollute. "So," she said, "I just took a shot at it."

Besides liking to draw Holly enjoys sports, particularly running and reading.

She just started on a new Nancy Drew mystery, but she also like books about animals and science books. She said she finds lots of interesting science books at the Key Center Library.

When Holly was asked how she'll feel when she sees her sign around the peninsula, she smiled and said "pretty good. I'll like it."

The student art contest was sponsored by the Tacoma-Pierce County Health Department as part of a public awareness campaign for the Penrose Point Recreational Shellfish Protection Project. The project is an effort to preserve the water quality of Mayo Cove, and to improve the shellfish habitat of Penrose Point.

The one-year old Penrose Point project, which also includes water sampling and local planning, is funded through a $120,000 grant from the Environmental Protection Agency's National Estuary Program and is administered by the Health Department.

Art News

At the Key

The water color marking pen and acrylic works of Linda Barkas are featured this month at the Key Dining room in downtown Key Center.

At Burley Galleria

Watercolorist Larry Brownley is featured at Burley Galleria through May 30. The public is invited to meet Brownley at a reception and Mother's Day open house from noon to three pm on Sunday, May 13.

Brownley emphasizes traditional techniques in creating his art. He uses only archival grade papers and professional mounting and framing materials. Often he makes his own paints by combining professionally milled pigment with the best available media components.

In contrast with solidly based techniques, Brownley constantly tests new themes and attempts new ways of rendering traditional themes, creating works that express a tension drawn between bold strength and a diffused gentleness.

Brownley's exhibit may be viewed daily from 10:30 am to 6:30 pm, Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 4 pm in the main exhibit hall of Burley Galleria, 14820 Bethel-Burley Road SE, Burley, between Gig Harbor and Port Orchard. Precise directions may be obtained by calling 857-7479.

Lions fete Mom

The Key Peninsula Lions' Club will again sponsor an all-community Mothers' Day breakfast at the KP Civic Center on Sunday, May 13, from 8:30 am to 1:30 pm.

"Pancakes, ham, little pigs, scrambled eggs, and fruit, together with your choice of coffee, tea, or milk will be prepared and served by Lions," said KP Lions' President, Frances Challender, adding, "and it's only $3.50 per adult, $2.00 for those under 12, and families are welcome at a group rate of $15.00."

Photographer Harrold Forch will be on hand to record your moment with Mom.

Tickets are available at Sunnycrest Nursery, Puget Sound Bank in Key Center and D.J.'s Tire.

Happy Mother's Day to all the moms working hard every day, driving kids to ball practices and lessons, cooking, shopping, cleaning and most important, nurturing kids. All those times of talking over problems, soothing the hurts, encouraging the down-hearted and protecting the innocence and vulnerability of a child make a mother's job one of the most vital of all.

Single moms especially, doing so much alone, should be especially recognized and appreciated on a mother's special day.

Thank you, Mom

Eighty-two years ago, Mom, you became a mother at the age of 21. I am sorry that it has taken me so long to mention it, but I am grateful to have been born your son on that day. I do hope that I did not cause you too terribly much pain as I entered this world. I guess no man can understand what a woman goes through when giving birth. I have heard that a man would have one child, period, if he were the one to have that pleasure.

I have tried to remember when I first knew you as my very own mother, and I simply cannot do it. Oddly, the earliest event that I remember well was the night that Sid was born. As he was three years younger than me, my memory must pretty much date from when I was three.

My special memories are of walking with you and learning to know many of the plants and trees and flowers that you loved. If you were alive today, you and Margaret would enjoy discussing those things as she, too, loves all of nature. She is a great one for getting little trees and plants and making them grow, even the little cast aways will be cuddled and coddled, and somehow will survive to shade the cats that we accumulate, here and there. I remember that you did that, too, and Pa grumbled, but he left them and enjoyed their shade, as I will.

And I remember our trips in row-boats that we owned as the years passed. You rightly taught me that Mr. Sipple built the best boats around. I am glad I knew you, Mom. Wish you were here.

In the Library

A lovely little garden is in the first stages of creation as a celebration of the life of Dennis Demetrius Daily. It is located by one of the walkways to the entrance of the library. Frank Holcomb, a landscape architect, has designed and installed the garden. The camellias against the wall will be trained to espalier. A star magnolia is in front of the planting. Leucothoe, a relative of pieris, is interspersed. A ground cover and bulbs will be planted later. Frank, as a friend of the Daily family, is donating his time for the project. The plants were purchased through private donations.

The Friends of the Key Center Library will appreciate receiving donations of books for the ongoing booksale in the lobby of the library. Paperbacks are especially needed. All books, hardback and paperback, should be in relatively good condition. Old textbooks and Reader's Digest condensed books are undesirable as they do not sell.

For more information, please call the library at 884-2242.

KPCS Breakfast

The Key Peninsula Community Services (Food Bank) and the Cootiettes Penn-annts #609 invites everyone to its breakfast from 8 am to 1 pm on Sunday, May 20, 1990 at Community House, Key Peninsula Highway and Hoff Road in Home.

The menu this month will be pancakes, eggs, bacon, and juice, coffee or tea. Admission is $2.50 for adults, under 12, $1.25. Y'all come!

Calling all kids!

Easter fun at the Civic Center

It was another fun year for Easter egg hunters at the Key Peninsula Civic Center. Kids turned out for the event, baskets in hand. Clockwise from left is Kathy Best's best friend, Easter Bunny, and Easter Bunny's new friend, Olivia Hoffman.

Lana Forseth, representing the senior egg hunters, found lots of eggs and won free tickets to Friday night skating.

And finally, what dad could resist this shot?

Jezebel Sauce

- 8 oz. jar pineapple-apricot jam
- 8 oz. jar apple jelly
- 5 oz. jar prepared horseradish
- 2 TBSP dry mustard
- 1 TBSP ground black pepper

Mix all ingredients together, let stand 1 - 2 days in refrigerator. Pour sauce over 8 oz. cream cheese block and serve with crackers and a knife. Invite your guests to put a portion of the cream cheese and sauce on the cracker and enjoy.

This recipe was given to me by a woman who got it from a friend who lives in a small village in far northern Alaska. I can imagine "Sara" looking through her cupboards for something as a snack because "Bill" and "Helen" are coming over for the monthly pinochle game and the supply ship hasn't come in yet this month. "Sara" comes up with this unusual concoction from the meager supplies on hand. Despite the odd ingredients you will find it an unusual sweet-and-sour, spicy (but strangely not too hot) mixture. Have your friends try to guess the ingredients - few can.

Another snack item which is the same type of idea is to pour bottled chili sauce (used for seafood, Del Monte™ is good) over a block of cream cheese and top with about a cup of cooked baby shrimp. Very nice served with rye crackers.

To Your Health

by Wm F. Roes, MD

This year you may want to consider a somewhat unusual gift for your mother on Mother's Day - a mammogram. Breast cancer is the most common form of cancer in women, and as with most cancers, the earlier the diagnosis, the greater the chance for cure. Mammograms have been shown in many studies to detect small breast lesions before the patient or her doctor could feel a lump or detect discomfort. For this reason the American Cancer Society has recommended yearly mammogram for all women between ages 50 and 75. Unfortunately, many insurances (including Medicare) won't pay for a screening mammogram, hence my suggestion of a "gift" mammogram.

Breast cancer is not really a single disease, but a group of disorders. Risk factors include family history, nullipara (never being pregnant), and a history of menstruating for over 35 years. Recently some research suggests a diet high in fat may also be a risk factor. Birth control pills are not a risk factor and utilizing the newer low dose radiation mammogram there is very little radiation risk from the mammogram itself. Breast self exam (BSE) is of real value. You are more likely to find a small lump than your doctor is, but only 25% of women instructed in it perform BSE regularly. Unfortunately, mammogram can be expensive (around $100) and uncomfortable, but also a potentially lifesaving test. Isn't your mom worth it?

Hood Canal Shrimp Season

The Washington Department of Fisheries today announced a full sport shrimp season in Hood Canal which historically begins for sport shrimpers on the third Saturday of May (this year May 19). The seasons set for sport, commercial and tribal are the result of shrimp test fisheries showing about 100,000 pounds of shrimp are available to harvest. The 1990 sport shrimp season will be from 9 am Saturday May 19 to 6 pm on Monday May 28.

Shrimp abundance is cyclic. The abundance has ranged from 100,000 pounds of harvestable shrimp to as high as 200,000 pounds during the last 10 years. Assistant Director of Shellfish Judith Freeman said the current population is not a result of over-fishing.

Hood Canal sport shrimpers must possess a license, costing $5 for Washington residents ages 15 through 69. Residents 70 years of age and older require a license, but it is free. Residents 14 years of age and younger do not require a license. Non-residents are required to pay $15 to participate in this fishery. The daily limit is 10 pounds of whole shrimp in the shell.

Clam Digging

Clam diggers will have an extra week through May 15 to harvest spring razor clams on some of Washington's coastal beaches. This bonus season, which allows digging on odd numbered days and during morning hours only, is effective from Ocean Shores to Copalis and from Iron Springs north to Moclips and Klaloch. For the beaches south of Grays Harbor (Westport-Grayland Beach and Long Beach), the spring razor clam season ends on April 29, as previously announced.

Because of a bridge closure in Aberdeen, being planned by Department of Transportation, motorists traveling to the north beaches should be prepared for major traffic congestion. Clam diggers are advised to watch for signs along State Route 12 near Montesano that will direct them to an alternate route.

boat registration

Registration dates for boats which must be registered in Washington state is July 1, 1990.

Korean Memorial Design Selection

Forty years after, the 122,000 Korean veterans in Washington state, and the families of those who died or were declared missing in action during that war, are moving closer to having a permanent memorial to recognize their sacrifices. The first phase of the design selection process has been completed for a Korean War Veterans Memorial to be built on the grounds of the state capitol in Olympia.

A design selection jury representing veterans, architects and the Korean community narrowed the field of proposed designs to the top five competitors. These five designs will be taken on tour around the state during the months of May and June for public comment. The state-wide tour will conclude around June 25, 1990, the fortieth anniversary of the start of the Korean War.

The 1989 State Legislature authorized the design and construction of the memorial and provided seed money to get the design and planning of the memorial underway. The cost of constructing the memorial will be funded from individual and corporate donations. Contributions may be sent to the Korean War Veterans Memorial Fund, care of the Washington State Department of Veterans Affairs, PO Box 9778, Olympia, Washington 98501. The Korean War Veterans Memorial is slated to be completed by the summer of 1991.

Keystone development denied

by Megan Aprile

A proposal to develop a 9+ acre site south of Key Center into "Keystone Estates", to be made up of nine single family lots, was recently denied by the Pierce county planning commission. The application for the development was made before the interim zoning regulations specifying a 2.5 acre minimum lot size were passed and was allowable.

However, the original owner of the site had violated the terms of the forest practices permit. The permit was granted for a 35% cut, with no intention to "clear, improve, or develop land within 3 years" of the harvesting. The original owners, according to county documents, "virtually clear cut the entire site, greatly exceeding the 35% limit." The property was then sold within seven months to the current owner who applied for a preliminary plat.

If property is to be converted from timber production to developed property, the forest practices permit is submitted to the county for review; planners then determine where buffers are established and maintained, and that drainage is installed. The owner of a property is required to state on the forest practices permit whether the property is to be converted to a use other than commercial timber production within the next three years. The penalty for violation is the denial of all applications for permits or approvals for six years from the date on the forest practices permit, leading to the decision of the Planning commission to deny the proposed development.
