NEIGHBORHOOD NEWS FROM WAUNA TO LONGBRANCH

February, 1982 Volume IX, Issue 2

BUS SERVICE SUCCESSFUL

There was a real celebration to welcome the new bus service at 12:45 on December 21st. Horns and cow bells and banners were much in evidence. Among those noisemakers were Dora Heinrich, Sue Franklin, Bob Schottland and Clara Kelly. Present also were legislators and county officials: Norm Dicks, Barbara Granlund, Art Gallaghan and Jake Bujacich. The Senior Van was also there as they will help to bring people to Key Center to catch the bus to town.

Walt Schmidt dispensed coffee and cookies, enjoyed by all. Mike Salatino and Walt paid fares for an inaugural bus load to enjoy a free round trip into town.

Ridership has been good and checks by the bus company show that most days there are over 200 people riding this route with a peak on December 31st of 377.

You can get schedules for all runs at Walt's Fine Foods and you can also buy passes there.

The first morning bus now leaves five minutes earlier than the printed schedule in order to make better connections at TCC. New schedules are being printed with this in mind.

Pierce Transit is most interested in providing the best in service and you can call their 593-4520 number or the Watts line 1-800-562-8109 if you have complaints, or write to them at Pierce Transit, Attn: Marketing Dept., P.O. Box 5738, Tacoma, Wa. 98405.

All proceeds will be donated to the school library for the purchase of resource and reading materials.

Key Peninsulans in large numbers are joining others in riding Pierce Transit buses. The daily bus service has

YOUR PREZ

January has come and gone. The new year is moving swiftly on, and as time moves so fast we sometimes forget to thank those who helped us in the past. At this time, I'd like to say thank you to all of you who have helped us on the way.

1982 brings with it some special challenges. We are going to be renewing the kitchen, painting the building, and many other smaller projects. Yet at the same time, we will be serving more people than ever before than in the metropolitan areas. Please bear with us.

It seems as though I'm always asking for something. Last month it was an editor and helpers for our newsletter. My thanks to Ricole Schottland, our new editor, Mike Salatino, our new manager, and the rest of the staff. This month I'm asking for help with our bingo program. Our present manager, who is doing a terrific job by the way, is getting a little tired and needs a rest. We also need men and women to help with the program. If you can, help, or know of someone who can,let me know.

RURAL CRIME: DON'T BE THE NEXT VICTIM

(From Washington State Office of the Attorney General, in cooperation with the Association of Sheriffs and Police Chiefs.)

Crime is not limited to the big city. Rural residents -- who are often more trusting than their city friends--are being victimized more and more by thieves and burglars. The old saying, "It won't happen to me," is simply not true anymore. In Washington -- and throughout the United States, crime in rural areas is increasing at a much faster rate

Farmers, ranchers, and others living in rural areas should be every bit as careful about protecting their homes as city dwellers. Most important, install good locks, and use them. A deadbolt lock is a big improvement over old spring-latch types. And if there's a window in the door or close by, make it a double cylinder deadbolt.

Dog was making his morning rounds. Just as people listen to the morning news on the radio or T.V., or read the paper, Dog's nose informed him of the nights happenings as he trotted from tree to tree and inspected strange automobile tires in the neighborhood. He was satisfied with his world and gently waved his tail to express his pleasure.

This special day, Dog was facing into a light northerly breeze, which was unusual. He stopped and delicately quivered his nostrils toward this source of information. Coming from the forested side of town, one odor in particular interested him. He decided to follow the slightly fishy scent to it's source. Because the wind was saturated, it was easy going, and he had travelled over a mile before he reached an opening in the

As Dog heard the sound of running water, he sensed, then shortly saw a fisherman sitting on a rock and smelling like a dead fish. Dog loved the odor but decided to keep his distance until he had thoroughly reconnoitered the situation. As he carefully crawled to the shadowy edge of the bank, he saw another fisherman, now facing him directly below the first one. Then straight down, there was a dog. He had never seen smooth blue reflected sky, nor clouds, nor that dog before. As he stretched down to sniff noses, the bank gave way and he was swimming in icy cold water. The man and dog below had disappeared, but the first man was swearing and throwing rocks at him.

Shocked and scared, Dog swam ashore, scrambled yelping up the bank and headed south, toward home. Once away from the sound of rocks cracking into the trees behind him, he settled into a tail-and-headeddown sideways lope. Just once he glanced up among the trees and saw blue sky and fleecy clouds for the second time in his life. There was no other dog or smelly fisherman. but it frightened him just the same.

Dog had had his horizons widened, but he did not appreciate it. His master could never figure out why Dog only went walking on cloudy days after that.

INADEQUATE WIRING WASTES ENERGY

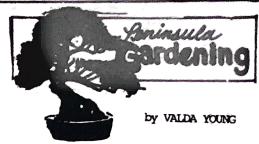

Joanne B. Ross, County Extension Agent

Inadequate home wiring can be an energy waster as well as a safety hazard, reminds Joanne Ross, Washington State University's Pierce County Extension Agent.

Wires carrying more current than they're designed for will become hot, bake the insulation and waste energy. Eventually the insulation will become brittle and fall off, leaving exposed wires and creating a fire hazard.

Appliances operated on inadequate wiring won't receive full voltage, so will demand more current, causing them to overheat and even burn out. This strain causes premature deterioration of your appliances.

Extension cords are common energy wasters because they aren't designed to carry heavy currents. This means you may be operating electrical engines on a low voltage. Overloading may cause the extension cord to become brittle from the heat, waste energy and become a potential fire hazard. cont. pg. 11

This is catalog study time. The new things hybridists have been developing, this year's special Awards, and the more promising plants that the growers have been watching in their test gardens are all described and illustrated. The glowing words and pictures make one want to try everything, but do be careful. Our climate is not the test garden area. We have a very long growing season but a very cool area. The dates of bloom and maturing time for vegetables are much later here than in the test gardens. That is why you must buy seeds and plants of tomatoes, melons, cucumbers with the shortest possible ripening time.

Unfortunately our cool, wet weather is perfect for the growth of all the moulds, mildew and fungus diseases, so get the plants most resistant to those woes. The catalogs have all that information and your seed or plant nursery can advise you.

Whenever they are dry enough, cultivate your planting beds. Plant trees, shrubs and perennials any time the soil is not frozen and reasonably dry. Get in one more dormant spray if possible.

The end of February plant peas, sweet peas and soon after, lettuce, radishes and onion sets can go in.

The nurseries are already having early sales, even on this year's rare introductions. Buy them now and wait for a weather break to plant them.

As I read accounts in the news papers about the Creationists and Evolutionists and what should be taught in our schools I'm reminded of an incident that happened many years ago in Chicago. A young scientist named Miller, was working under the famous Nobel Prize-winning scientist, Harold Urey, when he demonstrated before a meeting of his peers, his work on the origin of life on our planet. Miller first filled a flask with methane, ammonia and water (all things you'd find in a primitive atmosphere of a young planet). Then he passed an electrical discharge, like lightning, through it. Result: Amino acids, the first step toward life. His conclusion was that the beginning of life could happen any place where conditions were right.

At that time, his fellow scientists were rather critical, but Urey arose in defense of him and said, "If God didn't create life this way He certainly missed a good bet." I'm sure this was not said in a flippant or irreverent manner. Most scientists have great reverence for God as the vital creative force beneath and within all things. me it makes this Houdini-magic theory put out by some creationists look pretty cheap and shallow.

Harold Urey died last year at the age of 87. He won the Nobel prize for his discovery of heavy hydrogen in 1931 which made possible the creation of the hydrogen bomb. It must have grieved him deeply to live to see the horrid results of his discovery. He was a very outspoken anti-nuclear activist saying over and over that 'atomic: bombs are evil and cannot be used to maintain peace."

I intended to write about James Watt but perhaps I should wait until next month so that I can cool off a bit. Besides there's not enough room left for me to deal properly with Watt and his industry supporters. Simply put, his claim of "lock up" on public lands is a gross exageration and misrepresentation. You're pretty gullible if you're swallowing

I have my own private lists of ways our government could save billions of dollars. (It doesn't agree with our president's!) Auditors inspecting computers at government agencies recently were shocked to find 7 out of 19 agencies (with a total of 18,000 computers) with no standards to guarantee the machines are programmed correctly. Since the machines are totally worthless unless programmed properly, there goes a lot of that 15 billion spent on them. Oh there's plenty of waste going on in Washington!

WHEN the United States goes on the metric system, some of our language may have to be revised. For example: A miss is as good as 1.6 kilometers.

Health Center

The Health Center and Fire District #16 are interested in providing the community the most complete emergency medical services possible. To this end we are jointly working toward the procurement of a heart monitor unit. The monitor would be installed on the Fire District ambulance for use by the emergency medical personnel during transport to a treatment center. A record of this monitoring would be provided to the attending physician, showing him/her the heart rythm during the period of transport.

The Key Peninsula Volunteer Firemen's Association has donated #500 toward this equipment. Future plans also include procurement of x-ray equipment, which will be installed coincident with our move to the new building (across the street).

Beginning February 17th, we starting a discussion group on health maintenance, which will meet once a month at the Health Center. Topics for the initial meetings will be geared to prenatal care and development, as well as care of the newborn and infants. Future topics will be developed depending on the community's expressed interests and questions. To register your interests or your questions, please call the clinic at 884-2757.

It was a cold blustery day on January 14, but there was warmth in the Gold Room of the Civic Center. Thirty seniors had braved the elements and enjoyed a warm and delicious lunch. It was good to be together again after the snow and ice of the week before when traveling was hazardous. It was a joy to see the pleasure of those playing bridge, pinochle, and one table of noisy Aggravation game players. The afternoon went by all too fast.

An interesting trip has been planned for Wednesday, February 9, to Olympia to tour the capitol. The senior van will leave Walt's parking lot at 8:00 AM. Call Bud Franklin, 884-2486, for reservations.

February 11 will be an interesting meeting when a representative from the Key Peninsula Health Center will speak.

CHINESE LUNAR CALENDAR

There are 12 years to the Chinese Lunar Calendar. Each year is represented by an animal and each carries with it certain characteristics. Each of the 12 years, with their symbols, are repeated in 12 year cycles. This year, beginning January 25, 1982, the Chinese New Year, is the Year of the Dog. Some other years of the Dog are: 1910, 1922, 1934, 1946, 1958, 1970.

If you were born in one of these years you are patient and good to others. People can count on your loyalty and dependability. You work well with others and people respect you. Other famous dog people include Winston Churchill (1874), Ava Gardner (1922), and Robert Frost (1874).

To be continued next month.

It wasn't until quite late in life that I discovered how easy it is to say, "I don't know."

JERRY'S CAFE NOW HUCKLEBERRY INN

Meet John Farrell, new owner and manager as of December 21st of the cafe in Key Center. John has a long background in the food business including managing several Sea Galley restaurants.

For a while he'll be still living in Tacoma with his wife, Margaret, and his four daughters Ann, Kathie, Jacque, and Elizabeth.

I asked him what changes we could expect. The most conspicuous will be the new name - "Huckleberry Inn" - suggested by Lou Dalton, winner of the $50.00 worth-of-dinners prize.

John plans to really back-up the name with as many huckleberry products and baked goodies as is possible as soon as possible.

The menu will include many of the old favorites as well as a number of new things, specials on all three meals, and, most interesting to me, a child's plate which senior citizens may also order.

He'll be open the same hours with an entertainer on Friday and Saturday nights. We can now dance legally, as he has a license for dancing.

Any suggestions will be most welcome - so go meet John Farrell and enjoy his good food.

GUARDIANSHIP

-BY JEFFREY A. ROBINSON ATTORNEY AT LAW GIG HARBOR

Many people believe that a guardianship only applies to children. This is not true: When an adult becomes incapable of caring for himself and managing his or her personal affairs, that person may properly become a subject of a guardianship action. Over the years, I have seen much confusion over the impact of a guardianship and how it could be used to benefit the individual. Guardianship is a very serious step which deprives the individual (sometimes called the "ward") of almost all his civil rights.

Before any action is taken, the first question to be asked is whether a guardianship is necessary. To be a proper subject for a guardianship, an interested person (friend or relative) must believe the subject is incompetent. Washington law defines incompetent as either "... (a) under the age of majority (18 years of age) or (b) incompetent by reason of mental illness, developmental disability, senility, habitual drunkenness, excessive use of drugs, or other mental incapacity ... and unable to either manage his property or care for himself, or both.... Often, seniors are told by well meaning family or friends that they are senile or too ill to handle their personal affairs. If a senior disagrees and believes he is able to care for himself, he has the right to be represented by an attorney.

The second question is what type of guardianship is required. There are two types of guardianships: Full guardianship and limited guardianship. Each can be over both the person and his estate or only over the person or his estate. Guardianship over the person is granted when the court has found the ward to be incompetent to care for himself or herself. The guardian then has the responsibility to provide support and maintenance. Thus, the guardian can control where the ward resides. Guardianship over the estate is ordered when the court has determined the ward to be incompetent to manage his or her own affairs. In this case, the guardian has the responsibility of managing the ward's property.

A full guardianship takes complete control away from the individual. If it is a full guardianship over person and estate, the ward has no power to make any decisions which affect his or her life. This includes choosing a place to live, buying a dress, and writing a will, among other things. It can be seen that this is a very serious step.

A limited guardianship imposes specific limitations which the court finds necessary for the ward's protection and assistance. It does not remove any rights other than those Hostetler also wore blue. specifically stated. So, the ward can have a limited guardianship over his estate whereby only a single issue is concerned.

Clearly, a guardianship is not to be taken lightly. It removes the rights of an individual and an attorney should be consulted to answer questions.

WHEN Ben Franklin was a young man he told his mother he would like to become a printer. She discouraged him because there were already two printers in the thirteen states and she felt that the field was overcrowded.

SQUARE DANCERS

On Saturday, January 16th, the Skirts-N-Flirts Square Dance Club hosted over 18 squares of dancers from Poulsbo to Montesano at their 4th Annual Mexican Hat Dance.

Our caller, John Beck, did a great job of keeping to the theme with all Mexican music. He was assisted by six guest callers.

Our callers wife, Kay, made tons of delicious Taco salad and we also served corn muffins made by President, Byron Ray, Treasurer, Gloria Horsley, and Caravan Chairman, Jane Van Slyke. The hall was beautifully decorated by Irene Grate and Anita Armstrong. Sally Cornman headed the kitchen crew.

The highlight of the evening was the breaking of a Pinata by the children present.

On Saturday, January 23rd, several couples of Skirts-N-Flirts travelled to Montesano to return their visitation.

On Sunday, January 24th the club hosted a 15 lesson level dance at the Civic Center. We had a huge crowd and want to thank everyone for their support of all the new dancers.

All dancers are cordially invited to our February 20th dance with workshop at 8:00 PM and the dance starting at 8:30 PM.

Before you can score, you must first have a goal.

COMMUNITY ACTION OFFICE IN JEOPARDY???

At the January Board of Trustees meeting the Civic Center Board discussed the fact that the Pierce County Community Action Agency had cut funds for the rental of the Senior Lounge. Funds for the telephone and employee wages are available through July.

The Board discussed the problem and moved to table action until the February meeting and the Senior Society is to come with suggestions as to what they can do to help cover the expenses of heat and light for the Senior Lounge.

It was stated that the Civic Center Board had no knowledge of the article that appeared in the Newsletter and were in no way asking for contributions.

ONE of John F. Kennedy's most appealing traits was his modesty. A newspaperman once asked him how he became a war hero. "They sank my boat," Kennedy replied.

DURING the Civil War, Lincoln attended the funeral of a former general and politician. The man had been talented but extremely vain and conceited. Lincoln looked around at the very large turnout, then remarked to a friend: "If General had known how big a funeral he would have, he would have died years ago."

The best solution to this problem is to rearrange the appliances in your room so they aren't connected to an outlet by an extension cord. If this isn't possible, it's still cheaper in the long run to install more outlets.

There are warning signs of inadequate wiring. If your lights dim, or your television picture shrinks when appliances come on, if your motors seem slow in reaching operating speed, or if you've noticed peeling or warm wiring, you should have an electrician check your home. You could cut your electrical bill, extend the life of your appliances and prevent a fire.

Cooperative Extension programs and information are available to all citizens of Pierce County without discrimination.

Make your home look and sound occupied. When you're away, leave draperies and shades in their normal position. At night, leave on some inner lights, like bathrooms or hallways. An automatic timer can turn on a lamp or a radio, then turn it off again a few hours later.

Never leave barn, shed, or other doors open. An open garage door--especially with no car in sightis like a "welcome" sign to burglars

TWO AMERICAN GREATS

If anyone were to ask you to name ten great Americans, undoubtedly George Washington and Abraham Lincoln would be included.

This month, we honor both of these national heroes, not only as outstanding presidents and leaders of the country, but as men of creative imagination, decision makers and compassionate human beings.

Because he was the first President, Washington had the distinction of establishing the executive department of the new government. His domestic program provided for payment of the national debt. creation of a uniform, sound currency system and the fostering of home industries in order to lessen the country's economic dependence on Europe.

When he retired, Washington gave the first famous "Farewell Address" in which he urged his countrymen to "cherish the Union and the Constitution, to avoid party strife and to shun favoritsm to foreign countries."

Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth President of the United States, started early in his administration to convince the Congress and the people that the struggle in America might determine the fate of democracy throughout the world. He tried repeatedly in messages to Congress, through letters and addresses and informal talks with soldiers that he "had never had a feeling politically that did not spring from the sentiments embodied in the Declaration of Independence," and that in the American Revolution "was the germ which has vegetated, and still is to grow and expand into the universal liberty of mankind."

Almost from the moment of each of these great men's death, the drama of their lives became legendary. Both of these representatives now typify America at its best, suggesting the highest ideals of our democratic way of life.

Let's all take another look at February 12 and February 22, not just as days for a vacation or holiday outing, but as an opportunity to rededicate our devotion, responsibility and integrity as citizens of this marvelous, fantastic and free country!
